Letter from the President and Executive Director

Dear Friends,

Statistics at EBFP reflect the continued economic challenges experienced by our nation, state, and East Bay region. The RI Community Food Bank reports that state-wide food pantry usage is up by 58% in four years and that member agencies are currently providing food for 66,000 Rhode Islanders. EBFP's food service numbers have increased by 19% over the past year and 5,000 East Bay residents now receive food support at our pantry. Our fervent hope is that 2013 will bring improved economic conditions for our clients and their families and all those in need across our state.

The East Bay community continues to meet the challenge of providing for the ever-growing number of EBFP client households and fortunately that responsibility is shared by an increasing number of organizations, businesses, families, and individuals. Our 2012 Annual Appeal shows a 15% increase in total donations and the number of donors grew by 21% over the prior year. We are grateful that more and more people are hearing our message and embracing our mission. We continue to share the story of our crucial work with the goal of raising awareness of EBFP across the entire East Bay region.

Our Access Nutrition Initiative continues to shape and improve our programs. Empowered with nutrition training, our pantry volunteers consistently share the importance of fruits, vegetables, whole grains, high quality protein and dairy with our clients during their monthly pantry visits. These highly nutritious target foods are available consistently, all through the year, so that clients always have the option to select healthy foods in our pantry. The growing and harvest seasons brought us fresh produce from individual growers and local farms, including over 2000 lbs. from Magaziner Farm and over 1000 lbs from Blithewold. In addition, Farm Fresh RI donated almost 500 lbs. of fresh produce contributed by member farms, We Share Hope donated over 600 lbs. of produce from local organizations and we received nearly 40,000 lbs. of fresh produce from the RI Community Food Bank during 2012.

Our newest Access Nutrition program, Food4Kids, launched in June 2012 and is designed to meet the nutrition needs of school-aged children during vacations and weekends. Families who are eligible for the Free or Reduced Lunch/Breakfast program at school registered for our pilot 10 week summer program. Each participating child received enough food for 5 breakfasts, 5 lunches, and 5 snacks – plus milk every week. A total of 32 families representing 57 children were served at an average weekly cost of $275 during Summer Food4Kids. The success of the summer program inspired the launch of Weekend Food4Kids at Colt Andrews Elementary school in October 2012 which serves around 70 children with healthy food every weekend. Food4Kids is popular with client families, children and the community and we are excited to continue Food4Kids with improvements inspired by participant and school feedback.

We are grateful for the talent and commitment of our board, staff, and fabulous volunteers and appreciate the many ways each and every one of you bring our mission to life – our combined efforts have provided the provisions for 509,880 meals since we opened our doors in August 2009! We literally could not provide the depth and quality of services to our clients without the astounding dedication of our volunteers in giving nearly 10,000 hours of service to EBFP in 2012. What a celebration – let's keep up the great work together!

With hope and joy,

Laura Temple, EBFP President &  Anita Randall, Executive Director

History and Mission

East Bay Food Pantry (EBFP) and its companion Thrift Shop were established in response to a growing need for assistance in the East Bay community that was identified by Pastor Daniel Barron Randall and the leadership of Bristol's First Congregational Church. With support from the East Bay Community Development Corporation, state legislators, HUD, and the Town of Bristol, space was secured on the ground level of the Franklin Court Assisted Living building on Wood Street in Bristol (rent and utility free). Over 200 volunteers, including professionals in the construction trades, spent over 3,000 hours cleaning, painting and preparing the space for the August 2009 opening. The East Bay Food Pantry began serving the community in August 2009, and received 501c3 status in December 2009. The EBFP is a RI Community Food Bank Member Agency, having met stringent training and compliance requirements. Clients from the East Bay area are served free of charge at the Food Pantry and have exclusive shopping privileges at the Thrift Shop every Wednesday. The Thrift Shop is open to the public from Thursday to Saturday, with thrift shop proceeds used to support our food programs.

The EBFP currently serves over 1,400 households (over 5,000 individuals; 1,500 being children) with food distribution and meaningful community-based programs utilizing best practices for effective service delivery and evaluation.

EBFP operates with a part-time Executive Director, part-time Thrift Shop Coordinator, part-time Food Programs Coordinator, and part-time Programs and Office Assistant. There are currently fifty-five active volunteers serving in both the Pantry and Thrift Shop, who bring varied professional and personal skills to the agency; including a nutritionist, nurses, educators, physicians, IT professionals, engineers and business leaders. Our valuable community partnerships assist us in meeting our mission of "engaging, educating and empowering the East Bay in creating a hunger-free community".

Food Pantry

Food insecurity among Rhode Island families is a real and urgent social issue; one that the East Bay Food Pantry (EBFP) is addressing with compassion, expertise and innovation. Clients from the East Bay area are served free of charge once a month at the Food Pantry and have exclusive shopping privileges at the Thrift Shop every Wednesday. EBFP is located one block from the bus line and EBFP clients reside in the towns of East Providence, Barrington, Warren, Bristol, Portsmouth, Middletown, Newport, Tiverton, and Little Compton. Our “Client Choice” food pantry offers each client household selections based upon household size and key nutritional guidelines. This practice reflects EBFP’s belief in the dignity of each individual by providing a “shopping experience” for our clients. Clients choose all their items rather than receiving a bag of food selected for them that they may or may not want or need.

Holiday Baskets and Gifts

The Bristol County Elks, Bristol Rotary, First Congregational Church, and many caring community members assisted in fulfilling Thanksgiving basket requests for 314 client families (representing 911 individuals) and provided extra Christmas food for 311 client families (representing 785 individuals). The third year of our Christmas-4-Kids program provided multiple gifts of toys and clothing for 374 children in December 2012. This represents a 44% increase over 2011. Over 25 businesses, churches, and individuals donated presents to East Bay children who would otherwise have received little or nothing for Christmas.

Volunteer Dyan Vaughn and daughter, Cara Beller coordinate the Christmas-4-Kids program

Thrift Shop Vouchers

This program enables area social service agencies and local schools to refer families and individuals experiencing hardship to shop in the Thrift Shop at no cost. We give out an average of $300 worth of clothing, house-wares, and/or furniture to folks in need every month.

Access Nutrition Initiative

Our goal is to consistently offer whole grains and a wide variety of fruits and vegetables in all forms to our clients who rely on the EBFP to supplement their food needs. We are working to build nutrition consciousness into the culture of the EBFP, involving clients, staff and volunteers.

Access Nutrition combines the resources available from the RI Community Food Bank (targeted program foods, when available, and written materials) with the hands-on community services provided by SNAP-Ed and our own in-house, professional resources to offer more than just food to our at-risk clients. EBFP has a professional nutritionist who serves on the Board, works at the EBFP as a weekly volunteer, and serves as program consultant for Access Nutrition. In addition, a SNAP-Education dietician offers quarterly healthy food tastings, sharing recipes and collecting data on client responses.

EBFP is committed to building a nutrition-conscious culture that is evidenced year-round, not just during the growing season. This holistic approach includes educating staff and volunteers and offering activities for children focused on healthy eating. We are energized by the real potential for positive impact this initiative can make in the lives of some of the most vulnerable RI children and their families.

Fresh Food Fridays

In 2011, we began offering fresh food (produce, bread, etc) to our clients every Friday. In addition to their regular, once a month pantry “shop”, clients may come in any Friday to pick up any produce, bread, or other perishable food that is available. Our goal is to have clients incorporate fresh food into their diet every week. In addition, we are committed to getting produce and bread to our clients in its freshest and most nutritious state. The program was developed to support the goals of our Access Nutrition Initiative. 3,753 member individuals received fresh produce through Fresh Food Fridays in 2012.

Cooking Classes

Every month, the East Bay Food Pantry offers a healthy cooking class free of charge to interested clients. Led by a SNAP-Education dietician, each healthy cooking class offers pantry clients a chance to learn a new recipe and covers a different health or nutrition topic. Clients have the opportunity to taste foods they might not otherwise have tried in a supportive environment designed to increase their knowledge of healthy ways to cook with common food pantry products. Clients also learn about a variety of health and nutrition topics, including food groups, portion sizes, and cooking within a budget, and they have the opportunity to ask questions and discuss health topics of interest. In addition to tasting the recipe during the class itself, all clients participating in the cooking class receive a grocery bag filled with the ingredients required to make the recipe demonstrated in class. This allows clients to practice the recipe they have just learned and share it with their families at home. (Grocery bags of recipe ingredients are donated by the Bristol County Elks – East Bay Cares.)

Food4Kids

Beginning in the summer of 2012, the East Bay Food Pantry’s new Access Nutrition Initiative program, Food4Kids, addresses the critical gap in available food assistance to children enrolled in the National School Lunch Program during out-of-school time periods, including weekends and summer vacation. During the school year, many children receive free and reduced-price breakfast and lunch through the National School Lunch Program. When school lets out for the weekends or summer, many low-income children lose their access to daily school lunches and breakfasts; these meals typically provide a major portion of the nutrients that a child needs during the school year. Lack of nutrition during the summer months and weekends may set up a cycle of poor performance once school begins again, and may make children more prone to illness and other health issues. The Food4Kids Program is designed to fill that nutrition gap and make sure children can get the nutritious meals they need year round.

Summer Food4Kids provides families with the food required to make 5 nutritious breakfasts, lunches and snacks for each child during the 10 weeks of summer vacation. Program food is provided free of charge. The Summer Food4Kids program targets school-aged children (ages 5-17). Parents or guardians register their children for the program by becoming an East Bay Food Pantry client and providing documentation indicating participation in the National School Lunch Program. Parents or guardians are then able to pick up the supplemental food for their child every Friday during the ten weeks of summer at the East Bay Food Pantry. Piloted during the summer of 2012, Summer Food4Kids provided a total of 2330 meals to enrolled children.

The 2012-2013 school year was also the pilot year for Weekend Food4Kids at the Colt Andrews Elementary School. Unlike the summer program, Weekend Food4Kids delivers the supplemental food directly into the hands of the children through a close partnership with the Bristol Warren Regional School District and the Colt Andrews Elementary School staff. All parents of Colt Andrews students eligible for the National School Lunch Program were invited to enroll their children in the Weekend Food4Kids program. EBFP volunteers, including members of the CANteen Youth Leadership Program, packed bags with 2 nutritious breakfasts, lunches and snacks for each enrolled child. The school district couriers delivered packed food bags to the Colt Andrews staff. Staff and faculty volunteers discreetly distribute the packed bags to enrolled children by placing them in their lockers or backpacks, ensuring student privacy. The program has been well received by Bristol Warren School District Superintendent Melinda Thies, Colt Andrews principal Patrick Lattuca, and all participating Colt Andrews staff, faculty and parents. Since October of 2012, 72 children have enrolled in the program and EBFP is currently exploring opportunities to expand the program to other elementary schools in the district.

Grow-A-Row

The EBFP invites local gardeners and farms to grow produce for us and donate it to our food pantry every Wednesday or Friday as crops are ready to harvest. Fresh produce is an essential component of a healthy diet, but it is not donated frequently enough to supply demand at the East Bay Food Pantry. Grow-A-Row is an ideal vehicle to engage community, build relationships, and provide our clients with access to fresh, local produce. We have formed partnerships with Simmons Farm, Blithewold Gardens, Magaziner Farm, Farm Fresh RI and Warren Community Garden among others, to bring additional fresh, locally grown produce to our clients every week. Grow-A-Row is a component of our Access Nutrition Initiative and helps supply our pantry on Wednesdays and Fresh Food Fridays during the growing and harvesting seasons.

CANteen Youth Leadership Program

Introduced in the fall of 2012, the CANteen Youth Leadership Program directly addresses the East Bay Food Pantry's mission to "engage" the East Bay in creating a hunger free community. CANteen is open to all East Bay RI high school students and seeks to empower East Bay youth through engaging experiences and collaboration to develop the skills, self-confidence and commitment required for effective community service. Based on successful youth leadership program curricula from around the country and lead by the EBFP's Youth Programs Coordinator, CANteen combines a leadership and social entrepreneurship curriculum with community service projects that assist the EBFP in meeting its mission. Weekly meetings held at EBFP drew twelve East Bay students from Mt. Hope High School, Barrington Christian Academy, Bishop Connelly, The Wolf School, and The Portsmouth Abbey. Students participating in CANteen met to discuss current events, examples of leadership in our local community, and the "big issues" of our community and world. CANteen Youth Leaders were primarily responsible for packing the food bags for the Weekend Food4Kids Program.
